

Vero Construction and Engineering

Residential Construction Warranty Insurance

Supporting you through thick and thin

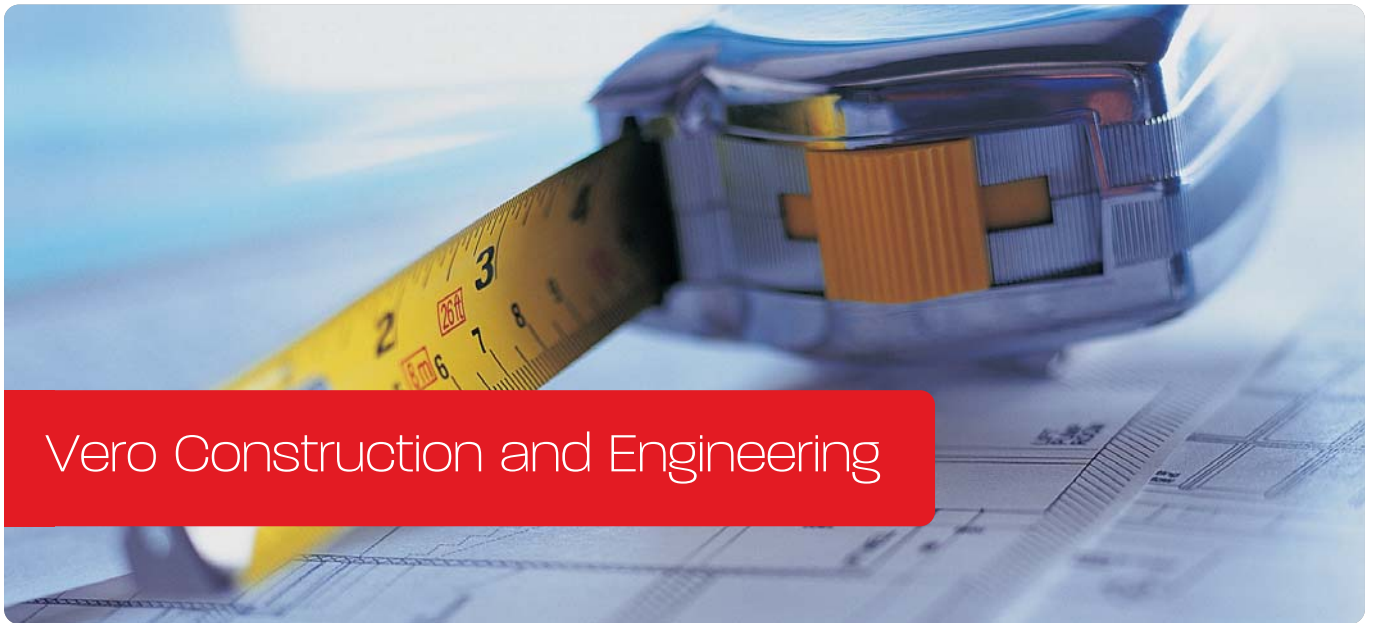

The ups and downs of the business cycle can have a major impact on the residential building industry. So when it comes to statutory warranty insurance, you need to be sure that your insurer will stick with you through more than just the good times.

At Vero Construction and Engineering our specialists understand the building industry as well as the effects of economic cycles. That's why we're the insurer who continues to service builders through thick and thin.

With direct online access to brokers, we're also better placed than some other insurers to process your application quickly, with a minimum of fuss. That way you can confirm cover early and concentrate on the job at hand.

So if you want an insurer who you know will stick around for the long haul, ask your broker today.

vero
construction and engineering

Vero Construction and Engineering

Specialist and secure

Vero Construction and Engineering is not just a specialist. We're also safe and secure.

We're part of one of Australia's largest insurers with origins dating back to 1833.

How do I learn more about Vero Construction and Engineering?

Talk to your broker. They can testify to our record and advise whether your business is appropriate for one of our tailored risk management programs.

Alternatively, if you'd like to find out more about Vero Construction and Engineering, visit www.veroengineering.com.au

If you wish to know more about Vero, visit www.vero.com.au

Why your broker recommends Vero Construction and Engineering

We know how important it is that you receive quality, independent advice. That's why our products are only available through brokers and agents.

Your broker knows your business. And knows insurance. Your broker will know that Vero Construction and Engineering is one of the most specialised providers in the Australian market.

They also appreciate:

- ▼ how dealing with experts cuts through the hassle
- ▼ our specialist underwriting team, and
- ▼ that we are backed by the size and scale of Vero.

Introducing Vero

Vero Insurance Limited ABN 48 005 297 807 ("Vero") is Australia's leading specialist insurer, comprising a number of expert insurance businesses including Vero Construction and Engineering.

We provide quality specialised insurance and risk management products and services through intermediaries including brokers, corporate partners and risk managers. With origins dating back to 1833, Vero has the knowledge and experience to adapt to changing market environments.

As a multi-specialist insurer operating in a number of niche markets, we offer the benefits of expert knowledge combined with the scale and security of a major blue chip insurer. This unique mix means that we can offer you expert and comprehensive risk coverage, and fast, efficient claims handling.

Residential Construction Warranty is a part of Vero Construction and Engineering, a division of Vero Insurance Limited ABN 48 005 297 807